

CePoD

Annual Summer Research Workshop Series!

Wednesday 11:00-12:00

Social Sciences Building Room 204

The Center for Population Dynamics at ASU devotes this year's series to grant writing with a specific focus on writing social and behavioral sciences applications to NIH. The funding climate is constantly changing and the summer will open with informative sessions on preparing applications, the submission process at ASU and changes in the review process at NIH. These sessions are open to seasoned 'grant getters' and novice proposal writers alike.

In addition, participants may also elect to participate in the proposal feedback component of the series. Participants will prepare a grant application and submit to other workshop participants for feedback and suggestions by the end of the summer. This additional feature is especially designed to be helpful to 'new' investigators (i.e. those who have not previously obtained external funding from NIH). Seasoned CePoD affiliates have agreed to act as reviewers/mentors in addition to 'peer' reviews from other workshop participants.

SCHEDULE

Date	Topics	Facilitators
5/27/09	Introduction and kick off meeting - why write a grant proposal?	J. Glick
6/3/09	No Meeting
6/10/09	Getting through the ASU submission process - Vicki Krell Presenting	Scott Yabiku
6/17/09	New changes in the review process at NIH	J. Glick
6/24/09	Grant writing strategies: Specific Aims	J. Glick
7/1/09	No official meeting - writing
7/08/09	Grant writing strategies: Data and Methods	Scott Yabiku
7/15/09	No official meeting- writing
7/22/09	Submit proposals to workshop participants. Discussion of how proposals are reviewed and how to respond to feedback	J. Glick
8/5/09	No meeting - reviewing proposals
8/12/09	No meeting - reviewing proposals
8/19/09	Feedback to participants; Summary of grant writing progress	J. Glick

Contact Jennifer.Glick@asu.edu if you have any questions.