The San Xavier Mining Company, Maj. Allen, Prest., was one of the first to commence work. The mine is situated some fifteen miles from Tucson, and near the old San Xavier Mission; it is thought to be quite rich, but has never been worked to any advantage, as the owners have given it but little or no attention, assuming that all they had to do was to send out a Mining Director who should by next stage send back silver. They have found that mining silver is quite different from mining gold.
