Sidney Randolph De Long was one of the most widely known residents of Pima county. For many years he resided in Tucson, of which city he was the first mayor in 1872 and at the time of his death he was serving as secretary of the Pioneer Society. His worth as a citizen was widely acknowledged, for as a business man and in public relations his service was of substantial benefit to the community. A native of New York, his birth occurred in Clinton county, on the 28th of December, 1828. His early years were passed in the state of his nativity, where he was educated, completing his course in the Military Academy at Plattsburg, where he made a specialty of civil engineering. Subsequently he engaged in railroad work and assisted in making the survey for the line extending from Plattsburg to Montreal. This was during the '40s. The desire to try his fortune in the west resulted in his taking passage from New York to San Francisco in 1849 and sailing around the Horn. He arrived in the metropolis the following year and located in Amador county. He engaged in prospecting and also taught school for a time. He voted for the constitution when California was admitted into the Union in 1851 and continued to make his home in that city until the outbreak of the civil war. When the call came for troops in 1861 he responded by enlisting at the Presidio in San Francisco as a member of Company C, First California Infantry. He began his service in the capacity of a private but was later promoted to the rank of quartermaster of the regiment. The troops proceeded by steamer to San Pedro and in the vicinity of Los Angeles went into winter quarters for drill practice. In the spring they marched to Tucson, where they did garrison duty for a time but later were ordered to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Mr. De Long was mustered out in that city in 1866 and immediately returned to Tucson, where he resumed the duties of civil life.

In 1872 Mr. De Long was elected mayor of the city, in which capacity he was serving when the municipality bought two sections of land from the United States government and formed the township of Tucson. Later he turned his attention to commercial activities, becoming a member of the mercantile firm of Tully, Ochoa & Company. Upon severing that connection he began trading at the Indian military post located in the mountains one hundred and ten miles east of Tucson. From there he went to Dos Cabezas, where he engaged in gold mining for several years with a fair measure of success. In 1898 he disposed of his interests at that town and returned to Tucson, making his home at 199 Church street. In 1905 he was chosen secretary of the Pioneer Society and with the exception of one year, when he was receiver of the United States land office, continuously filled that position until his death.

Mr. De Long was married twice and by the first marriage had a daughter, Rachel, the wife of James Whitaker, a well known banker of Galt, California. The wife and mother passed away in 1881 and in 1893 Mr. De Long wedded bliss Maria Ivy, a member of an old New England family and a native of Salem, Massachusetts. She went to Tucson in 1878 and for five years was associated with the banking firm of Saff oral, Hudson & Company, in the capacity of bookkeeper and assistant cashier, at which time A. P. K. Saff oral, president of the company, was governor of Arizona. She was later identified with the David Hudson Banking Company, remaining in that service for two years, following which she became assistant postmaster of Tucson under J. Knox Corbett. She is a well informed woman of progressive ideas and possesses fine discernment and good judgment in matters of business. She holds membership in the Episcopal church, which Mr. De Long also attended. He was for sixty-one years affiliated with the Masonic fraternity, having joined the order in Amador county, California, in December, 1851, and being the oldest Mason of the state at the time of his demise. He maintained relations with his comrades of the Civil war through his connection with the Grand Army of the Republic and served as commander of the Tucson post. Mrs. De Long is one of the active workers of the Tucson Woman's Club and has served as a member of its historical committees. Politically Mr. De Long supported the republican party and in earlier life took an active interest in public affairs, representing this district in the territorial legislature of 1874. His life was a factor for good in the upbuilding and improvement of the community and his active cooperation furthered public progress in many ways. He lived in Arizona during the great formative period of its development and in later years he related many interesting incidents of the early days and of pioneers who formed the advance guard of civilization and began the great work of subduing the west.
