We are committed to maintaining the quality of education at ASU. In response to the state budget cuts we are making administrative changes that will not lessen the quality of ASU education and, in some cases, will improve it.

In addition, financial aid will not be affected by the administrative changes. ASU will provide approximately $100 million in scholarships and grants this year and will continue investing in the ASU Advantage and Sun Devil Promise need-based aid programs.

Instructional practices across all ASU campuses continue to be in line with those at virtually all major public universities in the PAC-10 and elsewhere. Among the changes you can expect to see are:

- A reduction in the number of classes taught by part-time faculty.
- Modest increases in sizes of some classes. This will affect less than 5 percent of the nearly 13,000 classes offered by ASU.
- Increased utilization of technology to enhance learning.

If you are facing financial difficulties, please contact Student Financial Assistance for a review of your eligibility if needed. Student Financial Assistance is also available to answer all other aid-related questions.
