

SCHOOL OF
HUMAN EVOLUTION
& SOCIAL CHANGE

ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

deer valley rock art center

5th Annual American Indian Heritage Festival

at your favorite neighborhood archaeology museum

November 21
10am – 3pm
free

It is a free day at the museum, featuring fun activities and attractions for the whole family.

Enjoy storytelling

Meet Native American artists and browse art sale

Enjoy special guest exhibitors and performers

Hike the petroglyph trail, bead a bracelet, learn about native cultures and much more!

The Deer Valley Rock Art Center has the largest concentration of Native American petroglyphs in the Phoenix Valley. Visitors hike a ¼-mile trail to view over 1,500 petroglyphs made between 800 and 5,000 years ago. Our museum aims to promote preservation, connection and respect for the site and we are a destination for families to learn about archaeology in their own backyard! The Center is managed by one of the top archaeology programs in the country at Arizona State University and is a Phoenix Point of Pride. We are located at 3711 W. Deer Valley Road, two blocks west of 35th Avenue.