

Working Parents Network

A free, inclusive, peer-led group for ASU employees with young children ages 5 and under.

Working Parents Network serves as an informal opportunity to network and share stories about the joys and challenges of raising children. Being a part of this group can build or extend your network among university colleagues.

The time is reserved as an open environment to discuss any topic of interest. Periodically, a guest speaker presents on a child development topic.

Benefits

- Learn about available campus and community resources.
- Network with other ASU parents.
- Share parenting tips and strategies.
