

Faculty Council Formed At Tempe State College

The recently-authorized faculty council for Arizona State College at Tempe, which gives administration officials and the teaching staff an equal voice in matters concerning instruction, has been organized with Dr. Rufus Kay Wyllys, professor of social studies, as chairman, and with Miss Mary McKinnon, assistant professor of commerce, as secretary-treasurer.

The council, provided for in the constitution of the state college faculty, was approved by the board of regents prior to its formal organization. It consists of 12 members from the faculty and 12 from the administrative branch of the college.

Council members include:

Two-year term—Dr. A. R. Burton, professor of business administration; Dr. Roy C. Rice, professor of education; Lola Ellsworth, associate professor of home economics; Dr. Rachel S. Ball, associate professor of psychology; Dr. Paul Miller, professor of geography and geology, and Dr. D. R. Van Petten, professor of social studies.

One-year term—Paula R. Kloster, head of the college art department and professor of art; Clarence E. Southern, associate professor of English; Marlow Keith, assistant professor of industrial art; Frank O. Gentry, associate professor of mathematics; Harry B. Harelson, professor of music, and Dorothy Gilanders, assistant professor of women's physical education.

The president, dean, director of graduate study, comptroller, and registrar will meet with the council, it was stated.
