ASU Main Campus
FALL 2000 Transfer Guide
for Diné College
Bachelor of Science
Landscape Architecture

Students applying for admission with transferable hours must meet transfer GPA, freshman aptitude, and competency requirements. Students transferring 24 or more semester hours do not have to meet freshman aptitude requirements. Students who are 22 years of age or older or have completed an Arizona General Education Curriculum (AGEC) or any associate degree or higher do not have to meet competency requirements. A maximum of 64 transferable semester hours completed at a regionally accredited two-year institution may be transferred to ASU. All transferable community college credits are accepted as lower-division credits and do not satisfy upper division General Studies or graduation requirements.

The Bachelor of Science in Landscape Architecture degree is a professional degree program preparing students for careers in landscape architecture. Landscape architecture employs knowledge from the arts and sciences to explore reasons for and the techniques involved in shaping the outdoor environment. Large-scale work includes such areas of interest as landscape planning, landscape ecology, and urban design, while medium and smaller-scale work is undertaken in site planning, park and recreation design, and landscape reclamation. In this diverse and changing profession, new and emerging foci include computer applications, biotechnical construction, landscape interpretation, and others. Landscape architects are typically employed by professional design and planning offices in the private sector and at all levels of government. For more information, call or write:
